

FOR ANYONE SELLING ONLINE IN NIGERIA

YOUR ADS ARE NOT THE PROBLEM.

Your danfo door is jammed.

PICTURE THIS

Oshodi. 6pm. Everybody wants to go home.

The conductor is shouting "Oshodi! Oshodi!"

The bus stop is full. People are ready.

But the door is jammed.

So what does the conductor do?

He shouts louder.

That's what boosting a post is.

Paying more money to shout at people who still can't get in.

More boost. More "How much?"
Same zero transfers.

BEFORE YOU BUY MORE FUEL

Ad money is fuel.
Fuel is expensive.

Every business online is a danfo.

Before you spend one more naira on ads,
check the 5 places your passengers fall off.

Swipe. Count your leaks.

01

LEAK MESSAGE

ON THE ROAD

The conductor shouts “Enter! Enter!” but never says where the bus is going.

IN YOUR BUSINESS

Your post says “Quality products at affordable prices.” Nobody can tell if this bus is for them.

Shout the destination: who it is for, what they get.

02

LEAK TRUST

ON THE ROAD

The bus looks like one chance.

IN YOUR BUSINESS

No real photos. No reviews. No delivery proof. Nobody enters a bus they don't trust.

Show proof before you ask for money.

03

LEAK FRICTION

ON THE ROAD

The door is jammed.

IN YOUR BUSINESS

"DM for price." "Check your DM." Replies six hours later. They wanted to enter. You made it hard.

Every extra step = one passenger walking to the next bus.

04

LEAK FOLLOW UP

ON THE ROAD

The passenger said "Wait, make I buy gala." The bus zoomed off.

IN YOUR BUSINESS

"Let me check my account." "I'll pay Friday."
Then you never messaged again.

"I'll get back to you" is not a no.

05

LEAK MEASUREMENT

ON THE ROAD

The driver doesn't know which route pays.

IN YOUR BUSINESS

You boosted five posts. You can't say which one brought the sale. So you keep paying for the empty route.

Ask every buyer: where did you see us?

Agoro Hassan
@hassanconverts

LAGOS LOGIC · 01

YOUR TURN

Which leak is jamming your bus?

Comment the number

1 2 3 4 5

I'll reply with the first fix for your leak.

Follow @hassanconverts for one Lagos Logic a day.
Send this to the friend who keeps boosting.

