BEFORE WE START

Another composite. Built from real patterns.

A free masterclass signup page, the kind I see every week.

No real coach. Just the 4 leaks.

THE HEADLINE SAYS NOTHING

WHAT I SAW

“Welcome to the Masterclass of the Year!
Unlock the secrets to financial freedom.”

WHAT A BUYER FEELS

What will I learn? Is it for me? Three seconds in, I still don't know.

LEAK 2 OF 4

NO DATE, NO TIME

WHAT I SAW

The date is only inside the flyer image. The time isn't anywhere.

WHAT A BUYER FEELS

When is it? I can't save it in my calendar, so I'll forget.

LEAK 3 OF 4
A 9 FIELD FORM

WHAT I SAW

Name, email, phone, occupation, state, gender, age range, how did you hear, expectations.

WHAT A BUYER FEELS

It's free, but it feels like a visa application. I'll do it later. I won't.

LEAK 4 OF 4

A COUNTDOWN THAT RESETS

WHAT I SAW

The timer says 00:14:59. On refresh, it starts again from 00:15:00.

WHAT A BUYER FEELS

Fake urgency. Now I don't trust anything else on the page.

THE REWRITE

Same page. First screen only.

BEFORE

Welcome to the Masterclass of the Year! Unlock the secrets to financial freedom. [flyer][countdown][9 field form][SUBMIT]

AFTER

THE PATTERN

Pages like this blame the ads.

Traffic is people arriving at the door.

The first screen decides if they come in.

The first screen check

- 1 Does the headline say what they'll learn and who it's for?
- 2 Are the date and time written in words, not only in a flyer?
- 3 Is the form 2 or 3 fields?
- 4 Is the urgency real?
